Chapter 2

Notes

• Now, every premise expresses either belonging, or belonging of necessity, or [being possible to belong]; and some of these, for each prefix respectively, are affirmative and others negative; and of the affirmative and negative premises, in turn, some are